

As a amateur radio operator for the last 10 years I am completely against this BPL/PLC broadband internet system. There is a reason Japan decided not to go with it and that is interference. Amateur radio operators already have a lot of powerline interference to deal with and this system the FCC is looking at no good. Do your job and cut down interference, not make it worse. AL7PX